PSALM 145:2-3

© Liturgical Publications Inc. Excerpts from the Lectionary for Mass (c) 2001, 1998, 1970 CCD.

Dear Parishioners,

This weekend, we are blessed to welcome the Rev. Msgr. Michael Flanagan from Cross International. He will address the needs of our missionary priests who work with those who struggle for food and shelter. A saying that seems to prick me often when I think about my own present situation of living in the United States of America is this: "The Holy Spirit comforts the afflicted and afflicts the comfortable." We take for granted many basic needs that we have at our disposal, for example, clean, hot, running water, grocery stores with full shelves and immediate and consistent electricity. Do we dare to call them luxuries or necessities? The reality is that we have all of the above whenever we need them. Therefore when Msgr. Flanagan is present it should be cause for reflection upon how blessed we are and what we can do to share our blessings with others less fortunate. By sharing our financial gifts, we say thank you to God for the gifts we have and we meet the needs of our brothers and sisters. None of us would like to live in poverty; therefore our contribution is certainly a step in the right direction. Thank you for your generosity.

Every year we gather at this time to share in the St. Veronica Winter Festival. True, the weather at the beginning of the week made it hard to imagine winter. The festival committee works together to provide an opportunity for all of us to enjoy homemade baked goods, craft items to decorate our homes or share as Christmas gifts and delicious dinners to satisfy our tummies as we shop. There is one big item that the committee needs beside the shoppers to buy the goods and that is volunteers. This year especially there is need for some extra help on the committee itself. As Msgr. Flanagan mentions the need to share our gifts with those in mission territories let us not forget our own needs in this community. Some of us may feel overwhelmed by the need for volunteers but our parish wouldn't function if it wasn't for the dedication of those who volunteer! The committee will be grateful for any help so that our Winter Festival will be a success. Thank you for prayerfully considering this ministry.

We are on the final approach with our major project; turn-around/parking lot garden area. We will complete the installation of the railings for the ramped areas within the next three weeks. Thank you for being so patient during this transition period. The front steps to the office seemed to remain unfinished for a long time. During Advent when we are asked to be patient and wait for the coming of the Lord, please consider this as your image of waiting. Now you have first hand knowledge of what the Israelites experienced while waiting for the Lord's coming. Another set of "steps" worth waiting for in the journey of life.

Sunday, October 14 is Vocation Awareness Day. Every day we need an awareness of the vocations we share: married life, single life, vowed religious, priesthood, religious brothers, and the permanent diaconate. God has called each of us to fully live out our faith through our chosen vocation. Please keep Fr. Joe and all seminarians, those preparing for Religious Life and the Diaconate in prayer. Fr. Joe was a wonderful addition to our staff and the parish. The staff and I certainly miss him. Blessings, Fr. Mark

The general intention recommended by the Holy Father for OCTOBER is: (Minority Christians) That Christians who are in minority situations may have strength and courage to live their faith and persevere in bearing witness to it. The mission intention is: (World Mission Day) That World Mission Day (10/21) may kindle a greater missionary awareness in every baptized person. <http://apostleshipofprayer.org/> "As a society we are witnessing the fruits of the abortion mentality. Is it any wonder that we have created a culture of violence? We need to repudiate all forms of violence. Jesus offered the way — demanding but fruitful. Prayer does change hearts. The current culture of violence will yield only to that spiritual force that first touches and then changes individual hearts. Prayer does work and it must be our instrument of change." Wedding Banns

III William Fraunfelder and Catherine Souhrada

The following article was printed in the editorial section of the July 14, 2007 Milwaukee Journal Sentinel. It speaks very highly of St. Thomas Aquinas Academy. We wanted to share the "Good News in Education".

When School Choice is Your Choice

I can already picture the teary goodbye when I send off my first born to kindergarten this fall. It's inevitable that kids grow out of the romper room and into the classroom.

If you've read my past articles you'll know that I'm not a fan of public schools and have benefited from 12 years of Catholic schooling. So, it's no surprise that we've enrolled our son in St. Thomas Aquinas Academy – our parish grade school. But it'll cost us. Not just spare change either – but enough to pinch. So already we are wondering "will it be worth it?"

Well, we've long heard complaints of lacking academic standards, an absence of value lessons and lots of PC secularism going on in public schools. Coupled with the rapid decline of discipline in recent years, even 5 year olds are more prone to disrespectful outbursts than in the past.

But this article isn't about MPS problems, the reasons for those problems, or solutions for the problems. This article is about the school choice that each parent must make with a discerning mind when enrolling their kids in school.

The Milwaukee School Choice program is up for expansion if the budget taken up by the Republican State Assembly passes. I've never understood why lower-income residents particularly have not clamored for wide expansion of the program. But politics, as usual, prevents doing what is truly in the best interest of ensuring maximum success for as many kids as possible. This is why we as parents must take matters into our own hands.

The frequency of parental complaints about public schools with little investigation into feasibility of private schooling has perplexed me. The reason private school is taken off of the table is the cost – "it's too expensive!" they say.

Why save money for a college fund if the first 12 years of schooling are in the sink hole? I'm convinced the fundamental years are much more crucial than the final four.

I'm from a middle-class family of seven kids. To manage private schooling my parents sacrificed a lot during our primary years, and for high school, my sisters and I paid our own way. Twenty years ago that was roughly $1,100.00 per year – all earned by me at $1.00-$3.15 per hour. It wasn't fun. It was doable. It was worth it.

When we went for pre-registration screening for my son with his teacher-to-be, I had my hands full with papers, toddler, and infant. As I tried to figure out which door to use, I saw a young boy rush from a car to an entrance at the building's far end. It was after 8:00am, so he was evidently late for school.

"Ah ha" I thought, that must be the way to the school office. As my little parade came within feet of the entrance, suddenly that same young boy appeared and held open the door for me. He said a polite "good morning" then rushed off as I said "thank you" to get where he likely should have been 5 minutes earlier.

In fact, the polite, orderly, disciplined manner of every child we encountered that morning impressed me much. The curriculum and school philosophy impressed me even more.

Now, is this sort of stuff happening at other schools public or private? Yes, maybe; but maybe not. All I know is that it did happen at the school choice we've made for our son. And will it be worth it? Will it be worth the money we invest?

If first impressions mean anything, then the answer is emphatically, unequivocally: absolutely. Vivian Roe 7/11/07

Christmas is coming, the goose is getting fat... While we are still waiting for the first real days of fall, St. Veronica's Adult Choir is beginning to prepare for Christmas. If you've been considering joining the choir and would like a trial membership, now's the time! In just nine rehearsals, you, too can be part of the group that brings so much beautiful music to our Christmas liturgies! Not a singer? If you've been waiting for the opportunity to play your flute, trumpet, trombone or other instrument for a receptive audience (other than your parents!) please contact Kate Sponholz at the parish office. No audition is necessary for choral singers. Instrumentalists should have several years of experience.

This week we hear the Gospel story of the ten lepers which is unique to the Gospel of Luke. In this vignette, Jesus encounters ten men who ask to be cleansed of a dreaded skin disease. Although all are made clean only one, a foreigner remembers to return to God to give thanks for this marvelous gift.

Adult: Do we spend even a few minutes each day thanking God for all of the gifts we have received?

Child: How do you thank God for all that you receive?

Fun Facts for Faithful Kids

October 15 is the feast of St. Teresa of Avila, Spain. Teresa was a great writer and teacher. She also reformed her order, the Carmelites. She founded a new group, the "Discalced" Carmelites. Discalced means without shoes. Because of her writing, St. Teresa was the first woman Doctor of the Church.

Also on October 15, 1984 Desmond Tutu was given the Nobel Peace Prize. It was amazing because this South African bishop had been put in jail by the government because he spoke out against apartheid. Apartheid kept the white and black South Africans separate.

On October 16 we celebrate three important events. In 1978, Karol Wojtyla, Cardinal of Krakow Poland was elected pope. He took the name John Paul II because he wanted to continue the work of Popes John XXIII and Paul VI. On this day in 2002, Pope John Paul created a new set of mysteries for the rosary, the "Mysteries of Light". These mysteries recall important events in the ministry of Jesus. October 16 is also "World Food Day". We are reminded that there are millions of people throughout the world who go hungry each day and thousands die each year from starvation.
